Bonn Warns Against Recognizing E. Berlin

Proceed With Envoy Swap With Russia

BERLIN (AP) — The West German Republic warned Friday it will break diplomatic relations with any nation that henceforth recognizes Communist East Germany.

Like the Western Big Three powers, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government ignores the claims of the Red regime in East Berlin to represent the 18 million East Germans.

Only Soviet Russia, its European satellites and Red China now exchange envoys with East Germany. Bonn is in the process of establishing diplomatic relations with Russia, but has no ties with any of the others.

A Foreign Office spokesman said West Germany will fulfill its commitment to set up relations with the Soviet Union. Russia is one of the Big Four powers most concerned with Germany, he explained, "and such relations could contribute to German unification."

For all other countries, he said, the warning applies. As an example, he said recognition of East Germany by newly sovereign Austria, would end relations between Bonn and Vienna.

The declaration came as Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano conferred in Bonn with 25 West German envoys on Russia's new cold war maneuvers, including the Soviet drive to win recognition for East Germany as a sovereign nation.

The warning was believed directed especially at Egypt and India, which are tightening their trade ties with East Germany. Bonn leaders say they fear these moves might be the prelude to an exchange of diplomatic envoys.

The Adenauer government waved the diplomatic cudgel as the East regime announced its border police have taken over the Russian frontiers of the German Democratic Republic, including Berlin. The Communists said the switch was made nine days ago.

The Eastern move set the Western world wondering how it eventually would affect the isolated and surrounded city of Berlin and its Allied garrisons. On Sept. 20, Moscow and East Berlin reached an agreement to transfer border control from Russians to East Germany.

Knowland Believes Ike Will Tell Plans In January

NEW YORK (AP)—Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Calif.) said Friday he believes President Eisenhower will disclose by the middle of next month whether he will run for reelection.

This would advance the date of the President's announcement by six or seven weeks over previous indications.

Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall has held there was no need for the President to speak out before late February or early March.

Knowland refused to tell a news conference whether he himself will seek the GOP presidential nomination until Eisenhower "has the opportunity to make a decision which I believe will be made during the month of January."

He recalled he had said after his meeting with the President that the Eisenhower decision should be made clear "in mid-January" before the end of filings for state primaries.

In referring to his talk with the President, Knowland said: "I wouldn't want to mislead you by saying that the question of 1956 didn't enter the discussion."

Knowland made his prediction prior to addressing a dinner of the National Assn. of Manufacturers.

He said in his speech the United States has retreated from principle in "acquiescing" to the United Nations "package deal" to admit five Communist satellites to membership in return for admission of 13 "free world" countries.

He also told the association times were too serious to permit "waltzing around" on fundamental issues by presidential candidates.

Korea was an ancient kingdom with a history dating back to the 12th century B. C., long known as the "Hermit Kingdom."

Find Bodies Of Woman, Child In Car Parked At Funeral Home

MELBOURNE, Fla. (AP)—The slashed and bludgeoned bodies of a young mother and her daughter were found in their car parked in front of a funeral home Friday.

The grim discovery was made by Patrolman Charles Collis a few minutes after 6:30 when Philip Van Eeghen had telephoned Police Chief John Thomas that his wife, Patricia, 32, and 7-year-old daughter Phyllis were missing.

Van Eeghen, operator of a laundry, said they were at home when he went to bed Thursday night and they were missing when he awoke.

Decide Moser Not Mixed Up In Slaying Of 3 Boys

CHICAGO (AP)—Investigators said Friday they are convinced Robert Moser, 23, of Fenton, Mich., has no first hand knowledge of the slaying of three Chicago boys.

A Holly, Mich., minister, the Rev. Donald Mackintosh, said at Holly he has interviewed four persons who saw Moser in Holly Oct. 15 and 16.

It was on Oct. 15 that the three victims, Robert Peterson, 14; John Schuessler, 13, and his brother, Anton Schuessler, 11, disappeared. Their bodies were found in a Northwest Side forest preserve Oct. 18, beaten and strangled.

Moser, brought from Michigan to Chicago Wednesday with his consent for questioning, went through a series of "inconclusive" sessions with a lie detector. He has not been charged with any law violation.

Graham To Start Religious Crusade In New York

NEW YORK (AP)—Billy Graham Friday trained his sights on this huge, neon-lit citadel of commerce and Broadway glamor, with plans for a religious crusade to stir "the entire world." He termed it the "No. 1 challenge" of his career.

The slender, 37-year-old evangelist, in accepting a bid from New York City's Protestant Council for a major metropolitan crusade in 1957, said:

"A great spiritual awakening in New York would affect the entire world, and have an impact on every part of the Christian church."

Graham said the world judges America to a great extent by its biggest city, since it is the seat of the United Nations and of broadcasting, publications and theatrical industry that mold public opinion.

"We are coming to New York with a sense of humility, dependence on God, and the realization that much can be done in this great city," he added.

Graham told a press conference that his organization will open an office here early next year, to begin the massive, year-long job of recruiting thousands of singers, counselors and others to participate.

The crusade will last about two months.

Man Admits Killing Bachelor Brother

WAUKEGAN, Ill. (AP)—Authorities said Friday that Karl Vachlin, 36, of Zurich Heights, admitted killing his bachelor brother but said the shooting was accidental.

The brother, Albert Vachlin, also of Zurich Heights, was slain early Friday.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Walter L. Atkinson said the brothers had been drinking and fell into an argument about Albert's decision to move away from the home in which Karl lives with his wife and two children.

The bachelor brother had been helping Karl support his family.

Atkinson said Karl Vachlin related he pleaded with Albert to change his mind, and then got a rifle, saying he would kill himself if Albert left. The weapon fired accidentally, striking Albert, Karl said.

Karl was held in Lake County jail on a charge of murder.

Both brothers worked as truck drivers for a Chicago firm.

GM Head Tells Why Firm Needs To Stay So Big

WASHINGTON (AP)—The General Motors Corp. Friday resisted suggestions by Senate investigators that it has grown so big and powerful it might need dismembering.

The suggestions were posed in question form as the Senate Antitrust subcommittee wound up the present phase of its investigation of GM, the world's largest industrial corporation.

The questions were fired by Chairman O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) and James W. Burns, his chief counsel, at GM's president, Harlow H. Curtis.

"Why," Burns demanded, "is it necessary for General Motors to be as large as it is?"

"It is necessary," Curtis replied. He said GM "has grown from within" by pioneering in some fields, by making technical contributions in others, and because it has been efficient.

Any of its big divisions cut loose to stand alone, Curtis said, would face a "staggering task" of building its own independent staff of experts in engineering, technology, styling and the other myriad activities now carried on through a central corporation.

General Motors, Curtis insisted, "has contributed very largely to the standard of living which all of us in this country are enjoying."

"Does it have to be large to be efficient?" he paraphrased one of Burns' questions. "I don't think size has anything to do with it."

Graham Pleads Insanity: Charged With Bomb Murder

DENVER (AP)—Tall, boyish-looking John Gilbert Graham, 23, pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity Friday to murder charges stemming from the bombing of a United Air Lines plane which killed 44 persons, including his mother.

He was ordered to Colorado Psychopathic Hospital in Denver for a 30-day sanity examination. The defense was allowed to name two psychiatrists of its own for the study. It selected Dr. Franklin Ebaugh and Dr. Leo Tepley, both of Denver.

Still undetermined is whether the defense doctors shall have access to a statement made by Graham when he was arrested by the FBI two weeks after the plane blew up Nov. 1.

At the time, this was described as a "written admission" by U.S. Atty. Donald E. Kelley. Later Graham repudiated the statement. Its contents still are secret.

Denver Dist. Atty. Bert Keating charged the move for the doctors to see the statement and Graham's psychiatric examination amounted to a "searching expedition."

The murder charge accuses Graham of murder in the death of his mother, Mrs. Daisie E. King, 74, who boarded the plane at Denver for a trip to Alaska.

"I certainly am not guilty," said the thin, black-haired defendant, "and not guilty by reason of insanity before, during and after the alleged commission of the crime."

The district attorney protested Graham's mental condition before and since the plane was bombed were not immediate issues. District Judge Edward J. Keating finally accepted the plea as innocent and innocent by reason of insanity at the time of the time of the bombing.

He agreed that Graham is entitled to two trials—the first to determine his sanity, and then if he is found sane to determine his innocence or guilt.

Under Colorado law he could be sentenced to death in the gas chamber if convicted of first degree murder.

Byrd Antarctic Expedition Leaves To Start Constructing World's Coldest Laboratory

LYTELTON, New Zealand (Saturday)—The vanguard of the U. S. Antarctica expedition is sailing away from civilization Friday, heading toward the bottom of the earth to begin building the world's coldest, remotest laboratory.

First to pull away from New Zealand will be the Glacier, the newest and toughest icebreaker the U. S. Navy has. The expedition's six other ships are expected to leave within a week or 10 days. Sometime later, eight Navy planes will take off on an unprecedented flight of 2,300 stormy, hazardous miles from New Zealand to Antarctica.

This is the muscle phase of "Operation Deep Freeze." These are the men who will mark the trails past treacherous crevasses and through towering mountain passes; scout icy, forbidding areas and build the facilities scientists will use next fall as part of the observance of International Geophysical Year.

The Glacier's first stop will be at McMurdo Sound in the frozen Ross Sea, where Navy air officers immediately will scout the area for a landing site for planes flying from New Zealand.

Last reports indicate a violent storm now is raging in the Ross Sea area. This may be good for ships and bad for planes. Hurricane force winds could help break up the ice for ships but also ruin a possible air landing site on the bay ice.

The planes will take off when a site is chosen and the weather looks promising, but nothing is certain about the weather in the capricious Antarctic.

This will be a nonstop flight. None of the planes can carry sufficient fuel for the round trip along with survival equipment, heavy weather gear and three weeks food supply, all needed in the event of forced landing on ice other than at McMurdo Sound.

Missing Couple Slain: Negro Confesses Crime

U.S. Jet Crashes Into British Hospital, Kills One

SHEFFIELD, England (AP)—A derelict U. S. jet fighter, abandoned by its pilot at 3,500 feet crashed beside the Lodge Moore Hospital near Sheffield Friday night and killed a woman patient.

Five others were injured slightly. Hot metal wreckage of the F84F Republic Thunderstreak plowed across one of the wards. A fire started within the hospital, while outside a gas main was set alight and several small fires flared across the grounds.

Exploding ammunition was an added hazard.

Patients, including some of the injured, were quickly transferred to other wards of the hospital, a 467-bed institution for infectious diseases.

"The aircraft crashed into the hospital grounds and scattered itself across one of the wards," a fire brigade spokesman said. "One woman was killed. There were several minor injuries from broken glass from the smashed windows."

"When we arrived, parts of the aircraft were scattered about the grounds and ammunition was still exploding."

Fred Bonington, who runs a pub nearby, said "we did not hear the plane" until it hit.

"It glided in with its engine off after the pilot bailed out," he said.

A U. S. Air Force spokesman declared there had been no ammunition in the plane.

The Air Force identified the pilot as Lt. Roy G. Evans of Pulaski, Tenn., stationed at Southport Air Base.

"The plane crashed after it apparently ran out of fuel," the spokesman said. "A full board of investigating officers has been appointed and is starting work immediately."

7-Year-Old Girl Still Alive After 23rd Heart Attack

NEW ALBANY, Ind. (AP)—A blond girl with a heart much too big for her tiny body is still alive Friday after her 23rd heart attack.

It was the worst one yet for 7-year-old Sheila Whitehead.

"She is short of breath," said her mother, "and she is awfully tired. But she has the spark of life. I've never seen anything like it."

After the attack Thursday night, Sheila was placed in an oxygen tent at a local hospital. The tent was removed Friday.

The 39-pound youngster caught cold in October and in recent weeks it became worse. Afraid the cold might develop into pneumonia, Sheila's grandfather took her to the hospital Wednesday.

"She suffered the attack last night," her mother explained. "And the doctor says it's lucky she was at the hospital."

"He says not to leave her alone for a moment. If we turn our backs to get a drink of water, she might be gone."

"It's a minute-to-minute life," Sheila was born with an enlarged and defective heart. By the time she was 28 months old, she had suffered 10 attacks of pneumonia.

Benson Asks Farmers Curb Pig Production

THURMONT, Md. (AP)—The Eisenhower administration made a two-fold attempt Friday to cope with sagging farm prices and the resultant criticism of Republican agricultural policies.

A lengthy Cabinet session in the snow-covered Catoctin Mountains closed ranks around Secretary of Agriculture Benson and brought plans for an election-year program close to completion.

Simultaneously, Benson called on farmers for voluntary curbs on pig production. In a statement released from his office in Washington, he said "if producers hold down the number of spring pigs raised in 1956, their market position will be strengthened when these pigs are marketed next year."

Benson, emerging from the Cabinet session in rustic Laurel Lodge in the bleak December cold, once again knocked down reports he might leave the Cabinet.

And asked about a proposal by Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) for slaughtering hogs to aid pork producers, Benson replied: "Our hog program is working fine."

The government is engaged right now in an 85 million dollar pork buying program to bolster the market. Hickenlooper's proposal calls for premium prices to farmers who will market female hogs during a specific period, rather than breed them, to cut down the pork surplus.

Benson made no mention of such premiums in his call Friday for a voluntary reduction of the pig crop.

He said President Eisenhower will outline the farm program in detail in a special message to the January session of Congress after covering it broadly in his State of the Union message.

Benson, for whose flexible price supports and other policies the President has given repeated backing, appeared vexed by a reporter's query as to whether anything came up at the Cabinet meeting on whether he would resign.

He opened the door of his limousine and almost shouted this reply: "Once again: I am not worrying about my tenure."

The President returns to Washington Saturday afternoon for his monthly X-ray and fluoroscopic examinations at Walter Reed Army Hospital and for White House conferences with congressional leaders Monday and Tuesday. He will see the Republicans on Monday; the Republicans and Democrats together on Tuesday. He will drive back to Gettysburg Tuesday afternoon to remain until the Christmas holidays.

Other Cabinet members refused to discuss the long session, but Benson confirmed to newsmen that much of the meeting related to the (Continued On Page 11)

COLLINSVILLE WOMAN IN COMA OVER 5 YEARS

COLLINSVILLE, Ill. (AP)—Mrs. James M. Best, whose case is believed to be one of the longest of its kind on record, has been in a coma since she was in an automobile accident five years and seven months ago.

A physician said Friday that the 69-year-old woman, who has 6 children and 10 grandchildren, is in good physical condition and should live a long time.

Surgery has failed to correct the damage to her brain and she doesn't recognize members of her family. She is cared for by her husband, a daughter, Geraldine, and is fed baby foods through the mouth.

The husband and daughter have never lost hope, they say, "that some day she will regain consciousness."

Mrs. Best was returned to her home here after 8½ months of hospitalization.

Recover Both Bodies From Wells

BELLEVILLE, Ill. (AP)—A husky, 200-pound veteran of two wars told Friday of shooting to death an Illinois man and wife and dumping their bodies in separate water wells.

Authorities late Friday said they were placing more emphasis on the possibility that Fillmore Young, 34-year-old Carlyle, Ill., Negro, may have had an accomplice in the killing of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Smith of nearby Lebanon, Ill.

Young, a poultry worker, is held without bond in the St. Clair County Jail, charged with murder in two warrants. He led southwestern Illinois authorities to the wells where the bodies of Smith, a 30-year-old carpenter, and his wife, Arline, 35, were recovered.

Young, arrested Thursday night at his home, admitted the Nov. 27 double killing after two hours of questioning and later signed a written admission here.

Sheriff Leonard O. Reinhardt said that while under questioning Young frequently used the term "we" in referring to commission of the crime.

When pressed on this point, however, Young insisted he acted alone, officers said, and added: "I know I am going to die. Why should I drag someone else along with me?"

Two Illinois state officials said Young has refused to take a lie detector test.

Further strengthening the theory another person might have been involved, was a broken tooth found in the Smith's home, but which authorities said came from neither the Smiths or Young.

All bullets taken from the bodies during autopsies appeared to be of .22 caliber and Young said he used a weapon of this caliber.

Young insisted he didn't know why he killed the couple, but authorities believe he isn't telling the full story.

"The first thing I remember was waking up in the Smith house with a gun in my hand and two bodies on the floor," Young said in an oral statement.

Young, who said he knew the area from rabbit hunting trips, told of dragging the man and woman out to his car separately and then: "I drove to an old farm and went to a well with a concrete slab on it. I moved the slab and put her body in. Then I drove around with the man's body in the trunk, looking for a place to put it but got stuck in a ditch."

Young related that a farmer, Emil Brinkmann, helped pull the car free unaware of the body in the car. Young said he then drove to another farm and "dropped the man's body in a dry well and put some debris over it."

Brinkmann later told authorities Young acted suspiciously when he helped him with the stalled car. Officers went to the scene and found a bloody towel. Tests Thursday showed the blood was of the same type found in the Smith's home.

Coroner C. C. Kane said an autopsy showed Smith died almost (Continued On Page 11)

NEW INGREDIENT IN THE STEW

France for once has offered a new twist to a nation and a world weary of endless cabinet crises. This time the defeated premier, Edgar Faure, brought the house down with him.

So the lawmakers who did Faure in by voting "no confidence" in his regime find they must stand for reelection this coming Jan. 8.

It seems there's an old law on the books which says that when a cabinet falls twice within 18 months, the National Assembly may be dissolved and new elections ordered. With a show of nerve and perhaps no little spite, Faure invoked it. And for the first time in 78 years the lawmakers will have to face the voters before their normal terms have expired (next June).

As usual in French politics, complex personal and political rivalries lay at the root of this newest government collapse. Pierre Mendes-France, Faure's predecessor in office and a member of the same Radical Socialist party, has been working steadily to regain power.

Recognizing this, Faure had proposed to advance the June election by six months, hoping thus to forestall Mendes-France's bid. It was generally believed it would take the latter about that long to weld together the Center-Left coalition he has been building.

In that grouping are some Socialists, other non-Communist Leftists, and about half the Radical Socialists.

Supporting Faure were most of the other Radical Socialists and various other party elements to the right of Center.

The forces behind Mendes-France evidently felt they were on pretty sure ground when they struck down Faure's regime. But he foxed them by digging out the law that had lain in disuse since 1877. Now Faure gets what he wants—an early election.

Whether a newly elected assembly will give him or some other Right-Center leader the chance for a more stable government is anybody's guess. The new election will be held under a 1951 law that favors alliances in the Center at the expense of extremes of Right and Left. But Faure's action has badly split his own party, and it is hard at this stage to measure what sort of alignment may emerge from the January balloting.

Probably it is best to take a cheerful outlook. Government in France could hardly be more unstable, so perhaps it may get better. Hope springs eternal that the French may one day tire of their silly parliamentary merry-go-round and put in lawmakers whose purpose is to govern long and responsibly under far-sighted leadership.

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower is 65. The Republicans hope he will run again. He's their chief hope of winning in 1956. But can he run?

The word of his doctors on whether he can run and what they tell him—perhaps in February—depends on the condition of his heart.

But one of the most vital things they cannot tell him about at all is the condition of his arteries.

There was nothing wrong with Eisenhower's heart the moment before he suffered the attack. The trouble was in one of the blood vessels to the heart.

Its walls had thickened. Finally blood through that vessel was shut off. This lack of blood damaged the heart. Eventually a scar formed.

Then this problem arose as it does in such cases: Just how badly was the heart damaged? That would take time to show. How could the damage show? The heart could get enlarged. Varying waves on the electrocardiogram would indicate something wrong too.

The doctors have been making constant checks. So far they've reported Eisenhower has been doing all right. If they found the heart was too damaged to undergo the rigors of the presidency, they'd tell him so. They haven't yet. They are still checking.

Immediately this question arises: The question about his arteries, not his heart.

One blood vessel was affected to the point of closing. If one vessel was in bad shape, one might ask, isn't it reasonable to assume the other vessels to the heart are just about as bad and that it's only a matter of a short time before another closes and he has another attack?

It isn't reasonable to assume that, and this is said on the basis of one of the best heart doctors in the country. Why? Because only one section of one artery may have been so thickened it would close.

This was the specialist's explanation: Doctors know that one vessel was badly diseased. The closing of it was proof. But they don't know whether the other vessels are in that shape. Eisenhower might never have another heart attack.

But the older a man gets, generally, the more the deterioration in his blood vessels. Generally, that is. And generally, a man younger than Eisenhower would have less reason to expect a heart attack than Eisenhower.

In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Despite a budding career on the screen and TV, Fraser Heston has retired. What's more, he's going to spend as much time as possible in the woods of Michigan, away from the bright lights of Hollywood and New York.

No sense in kidding you—Fraser is 9 months old. He's the first-born of Lydia and Charlton Heston, and he has a resolute father.

"But that's all there will be for now," assured the elder Heston. "I certainly don't want him to be a child actor. If he wants to be an actor when he grows up, that's up to him."

Heston added that he wants his son to spend much of his childhood in the woods of Michigan. The Hestons have a thousand-acre place near St. Helen, Mich., 200 miles north of Detroit. That's where Charlton grew up.

"I think it's much less healthy for a boy to grow up in a city atmosphere," he observed. "You have to instruct him in so many things. Like 'don't accept rides from strangers' and 'play only in front of our house.' In the woods, you don't have to develop such inhibitions. Kids grow up much freer. Boys especially; I don't think there is so much difference with girls."

Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—When I nominated the dandelion as America's national flower about a year ago, there was some ruckus.

The proposal seemed to step on a lot of green thumbs. It was almost as if I'd done something indecent, such as suggesting selling kindergarten children into slavery.

Gardeners all over the land wrote in to denounce me as an idiot and the dandelion as a pest. Most of them agreed that if America picked a national flower it ought to be the rose.

Well, that seemed like a copy cat idea if I'd ever heard of one. Too many countries already have the rose. But I shut up on the subject, since I don't know about flowers would fill a mighty big vase.

Today, however, I'd like to present a rebuttal to all the thorny rose lovers in the form of a letter written by Win Haynes of Greenville, Pa.

Here is what reader Haynes wrote: "I have been in the nursery business for a number of years and for the life of me I can't see why anyone would have anything to do with a rose. If you get near a rosebush it goes at you like a wildcat. If you approach it wearing a white glove, thereby avoiding bloodshed, not to say poisoning. It will do its best to give you rose fever or shake off some of its loving insects on you."

"In spite of all the praises sung for it, it is evident that the rose has no use for man. It even refuses to grow for him except on its own terms."

"You can't just stick it in the ground and forget about it. It has to be planted just so. Let it get 'wet feet' and it curls up and dies. If you want it to bloom, you have to feed it like a horse, and it is finicky about its food."

"It has almost as many diseases and enemies as the human race. If you are fortunate enough to start with a rosebush that doesn't already have black spots, you can bet it will rush right out and get some kind of fungus."

"If, through constant dusting and spraying with the whole catalog of fungicides, contact sprays and poison sprays you get your plant to live long enough to produce a bud, let three drops of rain fall cluster of aphids (green plant lice) all over the bud."

"Again, let it survive that hazard and the thrip may prevent the bud from opening. Once a bud opens into a flower, a myriad of rose chafers, Japanese beetles and other bugs stand poised like vultures to devour it. Roses? Pfah and pluff! But take the dandelion. Brother, there is a flower! You not only don't have to plant them, you have to be a genius not to have them if you possess a square foot of soil. They will be with you pronto even if they have to make the journey by air."

"The dandelion has but one enemy—man. It is thought they furnished the first green food that Adam ate after being banished from Eden. Man has been eating them ever since, but they have continued to multiply and cover the earth."

"There is no race suicide in the dandelion family. Hardy? Man, there just ain't no harder form of life. Poison 'em. Dig 'em out and burn 'em. Do anything you like if you don't like 'em. But next spring when the snow melts, look out your window and it's dollars to doughnuts a friendly lil' dandelion blossom will be right there smilin' at you."

"Besides brightening your soul with its sunny bloom, the dandelion furnishes a virtual pharmacopeia all by itself. The old family doctor book says it is a laxative, diaphoretic, diuretic, expectorant, tonic, alterative and aperient, used for liver complaint, constipation, jaundice, dyspepsia (hold it a moment while I go get me a dandelion, please), dropsy and blood purifier."

"If you had told your audience half of that, the dandelion would have been named national flower by acclamation!"

Well, now I have told you. The defense rests.

EXCESSIVE SENSITIVITY TO COLD NOT SEEN AS CONNECTED WITH THE DIET

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
Written For NEA Service

There is a pretty fair chance, I think, that the writer of today's first letter can be given some, or perhaps even complete relief from the unusual symptoms of which he complains.

Q—I am 15 years old and ever since I can remember I have broken out with white spots all over me whenever I go out in cold weather, or whenever I put my hands in cold water. Is this something that could be cured by diet? —G. L.

A. This has all the earmarks of what is known as a physical allergy, in this instance, excessive sensitivity to cold. It should not be difficult to confirm this guess by suitable tests. Some good results have been reported by gradually increasing the tolerance to cold substances or cold weather, though to do this may take some time. Probably this would not be cured by diet.

Q—Could you give me some information on sarcoidosis? —N.B.S.

A—This is a general name which is used for several diseases all of which, however, are characterized by nodules or tumors either in the skin or elsewhere in the body. Some of them are considered to be tubercular in origin but they are not cancerous. Treatment is likely to be a bit difficult and varies depending on the kind of sarcoid and the location, number and size of the growths.

Q—Is it true that wearing nylon clothing causes some people to get electric shocks more easily? I have a lot of trouble whenever I touch the sink, refrigerator, telephone, etc.—Mrs. H. B.

A—The little electric shocks which people get in cold weather is the result of building up in the body of what is known as static electricity. Walking across a carpet or rug in cold weather increases the likelihood of such shocks. It seems to be more common in some people than others and it is believed that clothing, nylon perhaps included, does play a part. This is an annoying but not dangerous thing.

Q—When in the house, my husband is not comfortable unless we maintain a temperature of at least 80 degrees. Aside from the fact that this probably produces more colds, would it have much effect on the health of our three small children, who are ages 3, 20 months, and 3 months, respectively? —Mrs. G. J.

A—This certainly seems like a rather high home temperature, though I should not want to say definitely that it would harm the health of your children. I should think it possible that your husband could gradually get used to somewhat lower temperatures and this would be better in the long run for all concerned.

Q—Is there any cause, besides allergy, for chronic eruptions of the skin of the face in teenagers? —E.B.

A—The most common cause of such eruptions is acne which probably has little or no relationship to allergy. The treatment of acne requires expert advice both for local applications and for diet and because of its sometimes profound effect on the personality of the teen-ager it should not be allowed to continue without such treatment.

THOUGHTS

Yet I am the Lord thy God from the land of Egypt, and thou shalt know no good but me: for there is no saviour beside me.—Hosea 13:4

When we would think of God, how many things we find which turn us away from Him, and tempt us to think otherwise. All this is evil, yet it is innate.

No Warmed-Over New Deal Is Adlai's Rallying Cry

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP)—(NEA)—In Adlai Stevenson's speech at Duluth, Minn., there was one paragraph that may not have received the emphasis it deserves.

"We're serving notice now," Stevenson said, "that there is going to be a change. I don't mean a change back to a warmed-over New Deal. I mean a forward change—a change that takes up where we left off in 1932, that goes ahead again with some of the things that need doing."

That phrase, "No warmed-over New Deal" is one that Stevenson seems to have nailed to his masthead. It expresses better than anything else he has said so far what he stands for.

It is what all the shouting is about in Democratic circles as Governor Harriman of New York, Governor Williams of Michigan and other as yet unannounced candidates scream for more rich red Republican blood and raw elephant meat reform.

IF STEVENSON SHOULD by any chance be elected president, one of his first tests would come in selecting his official family.

He might call back to duty a lot of tired old New Dealers who did the Democratic party no honor in past administrations. That would be the signal he was going to serve a warmed-over New Deal.

If he should bring in a brand-new team, it would be the signal he intended to go forward on his own program.

In other words, some political observers feel that one of the greatest challenges the Democrats have to overcome is in divorcing themselves from the past New Deal mistakes. For those mistakes are what helped them lose the '32 election.

STEVENSON'S LATER SPEECH in Chicago got considerable billing as a New Deal antibusiness declaration. It wasn't.

This is what Stevenson criticized: "Eight of the ten members of the Cabinet and almost three quarters of the men appointed to high executive office in the past three years have come from the same segment of the community—big business.

"Is this a good thing?" asked Stevenson. "I doubt it," he said in answer to his own question, "and I suspect businessmen by and large doubt it too."

Without naming them, Governor Stevenson was criticizing the cases of Ex-Secretary of the Air Force Harold Talbot, Ex-Dixon-Yates Adviser Adolph H. Wenzell, Ex-Public Buildings Commissioner Peter A. Strobel and Ex-Interstate Commerce Commissioner Hugh W. Cross.

The Republican party and the whole business community are vulnerable on the records of these ex-officials who tried to revive "the Old Deal." They may have done nothing legally wrong. But they did not raise the ethical standards and so had to be allowed to resign.

IN HEADLINING Stevenson's speech as antibusiness, another of his important statements may have been overlooked.

"Let us be quite clear about this," he said, "There is no conflict between the Democratic party and business."

Any other kind of policy statement would be as ridiculous for the Democrats as the antibusiness speeches of GOP Senators Goldwater and Knowland are for the Republicans.

For if the Democrats should win the 1956 elections, they have to depend on business cooperation to maintain full employment, pay taxes and keep the economy booming. No U. S. political party can afford to be "antibusiness."

A case can be made that the Democrats' extreme left-wingers may have done Stevenson a great favor by trying to brand him as a middle-of-the-roader.

Governor Stevenson is believed to have made a shrewd analysis in declaring that "moderation is the spirit of the times."

It should have more of an appeal to the independent voters, who swung victory to the Republicans last election.

For Governor Stevenson, moderation may be a lot better politics than the warmed-over New Deal some of his more radical rivals are trying to cook up.

Allan Keller, a distinguished newspaperman who has never forgotten his Yankee grandmother's remarkable food, has just written a heart-warming and mouth-watering book about Yankee food as it used to be—and can be again. It is called "Grandma's Cooking" and contains over 250 recipes from his grandmother's New England country kitchen. Would make a joyous Christmas gift, incidentally.

Let's take a cream gravy look inside the cover.

Pork Chops in Cream Gravy
Four medium thick lean pork chops, salt, pepper, sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 1/2 cups fresh milk.

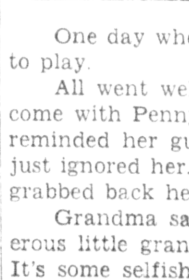

Cut some fat from chops and melt it slowly in heavy frying pan. Wipe chops with damp cloth. Sprinkle them with salt and pepper and a tiny bit of sugar. Fry slowly in fat until browned on both sides. Cover very tightly and cook slowly, turning occasionally for about 35 to 40 minutes, or until tender. Remove from pan to hot platter. Add flour to pan drippings and mix to a smooth paste. Then add milk and stir rapidly over moderate heat until smooth and thickened. Pour over chops and serve.

Chicken Smothered in Cream Gravy
Five to 6-pound roasting chicken, 1 cup flour, 1 teaspoon poultry seasoning, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon pepper, 1 cup butter, 4 cups rich chicken broth, 1 cup extra chicken broth.

Cut chicken into serving pieces and wash and dry them. Mix flour and seasonings together. Dredge pieces of fowl in this seasoned flour. Melt butter in heavy pot or deep skillet. Brown a few pieces of chicken at a time. Remove to a warm pan.

When last piece has been browned and removed, add whatever seasoned flour is left to drippings in pot. Mix thoroughly until smooth and slightly browned, stirring constantly. Stirring all the while, slowly add 4 cups chicken broth and cook until thickened and smooth. Place browned chicken in sauce, cover pot well and simmer very slowly over low heat until chicken is tender. Peek in occasionally lest gravy cook down too far. If this happens, add extra chicken broth. Salt and pepper if needed.

SUNDAY'S DINNER: Grapefruit and avocado cut, chicken smothered in cream gravy, cranberry sauce, steamed rice, canned or frozen lima beans, hot biscuits, butter or margarine, celery and olives, apple turnovers with custard sauce, coffee, tea, milk.

We Can Protect Penny From Hunger for Undue Approval

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

One day when Grandma was visiting, Penny's friend Chris came over to play.

All went well until Chris tried to force the nursing bottle that had come with Penny's new doll into her own doll's mouth. Anxiously, Penny reminded her guest that the dolls' mouths weren't the same. But Chris just ignored her. So Penny, just as Grandma opened the back porch door, grabbed back her bottle—and gave Chris an irritable push.

Grandma said, "Oh my, what's going on out here? Is this my generous little granddaughter fighting over toys with a friend? It can't be. It's some selfish little girl who is just pretending to be Penny. Come, dear..." And in inexorable righteousness, she moved upon Penny to transfer her property to Chris.

Penny defied the transfer. An uncorrupted child, she rejected the trade offered by Grandma—and refused to yield her bottle in exchange for approval of her "generosity."

She felt none. So, instead of allowing Grandma's flattery to trick her into thinking she did, she clutched her bottle and ducking under Grandma's arm, fled to her mother who understood her point of view.

It's too bad that Grandma couldn't give it understanding, too. She herself suffers from an almost uncontrollable craving for approval of her "generosity." And as her income has been reduced since her husband's death, she can't afford to feed it the way she used to.

Her inability to make other people grateful to her often overwhelms her with discouragement. Indeed, much of her irritation at the restrictions of age and decreased money is thwarted hunger for "thank you's." She doesn't suspect this, of course.

But all through this visit, she's let self-pity torment her because she couldn't insure her welcome with an expensive gift to Penny's mother.

She didn't want to give it to a stranger. It was just that "generosity" has always been Grandma's answer to loneliness. Fear of being alone. So feeling afraid one afternoon last week, she made the gift that brought the temporary reassurance of a stranger's "How kind you are."

It is sad that Grandma allows herself to be so controlled. But there's not much we can do about it unless she invites us to. However, we can protect Penny against this kind of greediness, asking her for no generosity that isn't spontaneous joy in giving.

Interpreting The News

By J. M. ROBERTS

Associated Press News Analyst

In dealing with current events in the cold war it is always difficult to keep them in perspective against the broad background of history and strategy.

It is almost impossible to stop every day to fit in one development or one new tactic.

Secretary Dulles was having this trouble when he referred in Chicago to the underdeveloped nations as "new targets" of Soviet guile.

It is quite true that there is a difference in the Russian approach these days. Guile is a good word for the methods now being emphasized, as compared with the 10-year postwar effort based primarily on diplomacy backed by the inherent threat of force. Economic penetration is another descriptive phrase, implying Moscow's willingness to deprive the poorly served Russian people in order to impress others.

The targets themselves, however, are not new. They have been pinpointed on the maps of Communist planners for more than a hundred years, and they have been the objectives of international Communism ever since the Red revolution in Russia. Outer Mongolia was the first to fall, in 1924.

The minutes of every Comintern meeting between 1924 and 1939 contain direct references to these targets and the means of hitting them. Very precise blueprints were drawn for the conquest of the underdeveloped countries at the same time the industrial countries were expected to exterminate each other through wars and economic competition.

Since the war the program has been refined to connect the conquest of the underdeveloped countries directly with the hoped-for capitalist collapse, by cutting off the West from much of its raw materials.

At another point in his speech Dulles, though still not openly admitting the complete failure of recent negotiations with Russia, does recognize the need for a revised outlook on the problems of competing with Russia in the field of economic aid. He says it will not be a new policy, which is true. But it will be a return to an old policy from which the United States has been trying to escape.

Recognizing the Russian ability to shift emphasis from one form of attack to another at any time, the secretary has reiterated the determination of the United States to use its military as well as its economic power if necessary to prevent Communist expansion. It was a virtual repetition of his 1954 reference to the availability of power for massive retaliation for use as Washington might see fit.

The secretary's whole speech indicates that American policy is firming up a bit after floundering for a while in a sea of Russian honey.

NOT BY ACCIDENT

A baby doesn't "just happen." He is created through a slow and intricate process designed by God. Neither does a delinquent "just happen." He, too, is created—gradually—by little wrongs and big, all human-caused.

Insecurity, improper associates or environment and lack of love often push a child into developing criminal tendencies.

Neglect, lack of guidance, lack of education and religious training will cause him to weaken and become sick morally and spiritually.

Responsible mothers and fathers will endeavor to protect their children from these evils. They will love a child. They will supervise his activities, and see that he has adequate religious education.

They will see that he goes regularly to Sunday School and Church, and they'll go along with him.

As a responsible parent, be sure that you create a Christian—not a criminal.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Gift Search Is Tiring

BY ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

The busy season of gift shopping is supposed to be fun but all too often it turns out to be a few weeks of horror. Women find they are so tired at the end of a day in the stores that they can barely get themselves into bed, much less make dinner for the family.

A lot of women figure that the source of their difficulty is the feet. And the feet doctors, who do a booming business at this season, agree with them.

They point out that hiking ten or 11 miles a day is hard on feet that are unaccustomed to it. They also point out that the beat feet they meet among their patients during the holiday season are often suffering from the wrong kind of shoes.

For long periods of shopping, a medium heel is the most comfortable one. Flat heels, if you're used to them, are also good.

The shoes should be a pair from that section of your shoe wardrobe that fits most correctly. The uppers should be supple leather, but not broken out or unsewn from wear. The upper will give with the foot, but provide firm support, just as a bra does. A resilient leather sole will absorb the shock of clunk-clunk-clunk on department store floors.

At the heel, the shoe should fit snugly, but not tightly. Loose ones will produce a blister which will break as the feet swell.

If you have no shoes in the wardrobe that fit this description, make your first shopping stop the shoe department.

CURVES THAT COUNT

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Take it from a student of curves, the way American women are put together gives them a longer life expectancy than men.

Louis I. Dublin, an actuary and longtime student of life expectancy curves, told an insurance group one reason for the longer lives of women is their basic bone structure and physiology.

New Advances In SAFETY Engineering

Today, with motorists traveling greater distances and at higher speeds, drivers are more conscious than ever of the need for over-all safety in their cars.

With the introduction of a complete line-up of new safety features for 1956, Mercury offers greater security for modern motoring. These new safeguards, providing extra protection for driver and passengers, are designed to fulfill the needs of today's traffic and superhighway travel.

Each of the new safety features is custom-designed for Mercury to supplement the inherent safety of Mercury's rugged chassis and reinforced all-steel body. Each is the result of years of research and testing.

With these new advancements in safety engineering, you'll find extra pleasure, relaxation, and "peace of mind" in Mercury. And you'll find that this new safety-engineering makes the 1956 Mercury a safer, finer car than ever before.

PARAKEET LEADS CHEERS

MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP) — The Muskegon Heights high school football team has a first all of its own. It's a parakeet which gives out with a yell about the school's nickname.

With a little prompting, Pretty Boy, which has never seen a game, will come forth with: "Yea, Tigers, Tigers, Tigers."

Judge Accused Of Aiding Alleged
Baby-Sale Plot

MOREHEAD, Ky. (P)—Rowan County Judge William T. McClain has been indicted on separate charges of misfeasance in office and aiding in an alleged baby-selling plot.

Two misfeasance indictments by a grand jury Thursday charged McClain with taking fines which he collected and refusing to turn them over to the state and destroying records of bonds taken by him by removing them from the bond record books.

The indictment—returned Wednesday—linked McClain with an alleged baby-selling scheme charged the judge with aiding and abetting Mrs. Zelda Brown McPherson in the alleged procurement of babies for sale to rich, childless women in Texas.

The judge said Thursday he would have a statement to make later, adding "There's nothing to this like the (the grand jury) claim. I ask the people to hold their judgment until all the facts are presented."

Mrs. McPherson, 32, former draft board clerk in Morehead, was charged with taking away two children and accepting money for the procurement of a third.

The woman was charged Oct. 4 with procuring babies from underprivileged homes after state police conducted a two-month investigation.

Records show Judge McClain dismissed the charge Oct. 10 and released her bondsmen. Shortly thereafter, she and her husband moved to Texas.

Dirksen 'Glories In Courage Of Ezra Benson'

CHICAGO (P)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson got a big pat on the back Thursday from Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill.) who said "I glory in the courage of Ezra Benson."

Benson has sponsored flexible price supports. Dirksen has supported such a program, and told a Union League Club meeting that it was "fantastic" that some propose a return to a program he said produced today's "farm troubles" by piling up surpluses.

Benson's program drew the wrath of many Democrats and some Republican office holders in farm states who have blamed him for farm troubles and have demanded his resignation.

In defending Benson's policies, Dirksen said "I'm thinking about the conservation of the farmer, and I want to be sure that whatever we do is sound."

If Injured Man
Dead When Aid
Denied, Uncertain

CHICAGO (P)—The question of whether an accident victim was dead or alive when police refused to allow him to be taken to a hospital remains unresolved.

An inquest was continued to Dec. 15 after a coroner's jury Thursday failed to settle the controversy.

Suburban Melrose Park police testified that Earl Evans, 43, was dead when they arrived at the accident scene Tuesday night. Evans had been struck by an automobile driven by Miss Evelyn Schorr, 19, of Bensenville, Ill., who has been charged with involuntary manslaughter.

Albert A. Tonelli, an ambulance helper, testified he felt a slight pulse when he arrived at the scene at 11:12 p.m.

But Police Sgt. Louis Remkus testified he felt Evans' wrist about 11 p.m. and "was of the opinion he was then dead."

Police testified Dr. A. Everett Joslyn arrived at 11:20 p.m. and pronounced Evans dead, but the doctor testified he did not know the time.

The ambulance men and sheriff's police said it was 11:42 p.m. before Dr. Joslyn arrived.

Tonelli testified police refused him permission to take Evans to the hospital until after the arrival of a doctor and an accident photographer.

Ex-Con Apparently Not Man Who Held
Up Wisconsin Bank

CHICAGO (P)—Police say an ex-convict seized for a traffic violation apparently had no connection with Wednesday's $75,000 bank robbery at Lake Geneva, Wis.

A fingerprint check showed the man to be Gerald O'Brien, 32, who was paroled from Stateville, Illinois Penitentiary July 21 after serving eight years for robbery.

Policeman Hank Davis, who arrested O'Brien, alias Donald Kramer and William Stubbs, on the South Side Wednesday night said he fitted generally the description of the lone gunman who held up the Lake Geneva bank.

But Chicago detectives reported nothing had been found to link O'Brien to the robbery. They said his statement Wednesday night that he had been in Lake Geneva that day probably was untrue because he was intoxicated and making "a lot of statements that turned out to be completely false and groundless."

Davis said he stopped O'Brien and his wife, Pat, 28, for driving the wrong way lane. Davis reported that O'Brien offered him $1,000 to let him go. The officer said that when he refused O'Brien sped away.

Davis hailed an off-duty policeman who was driving by and together they gave pursuit and stopped O'Brien at gunpoint.

Police said O'Brien had two guns on him but no $1,000.

O'Brien was held on charges of assault with a deadly weapon, carrying a concealed weapon, auto larceny and three traffic violations.

Police said the car O'Brien was driving when seized had been stolen earlier in Chicago.

E. Germany Says
Police Now Patrol
'Sovereign' State

BERLIN (P)—Communist East Germany announced today its frontier police have taken over from the Russians the task of controlling the borders.

They have orders to be courteous but to resist any efforts to interfere with the "sovereignty" of the state.

The announcement, from the press office of Prime Minister Otto Grotewohl, said the guarding of the borders would be conducted in such a way as to respect four-power agreements guaranteeing American, British and French garrisons in isolated Berlin free access to the West.

In addition, the government statement appeared to make a point of difference between the East German zone frontiers and the boundary between the western sectors of Berlin and the Soviet east sector. The latter border will be handled by the regular Communist people's police. The zonal frontier duty is in the hands of the specially trained and heavily armed border police.

BROTHERS LIVE IN SAME HOUSE WITHOUT
SPEAKING, 12 YEARS

OMAHA (P)—A story on how two Omaha brothers—an attorney and a doctor—lived in the same house for 12 years without speaking was revealed yesterday in a will contest.

The story came out when Dr. Frank C. Karlovsky went to court to contest the will of brother James W., who died two weeks ago.

James W. Karlovsky left $1 to the doctor and rest of his $6,000 estate to a cousin, Emma Kalick. Dr. Karlovsky's petition said Emma moved in with them in 1943 and a dispute over her presence started the long silence.

He charged Emma had "undue influence" over his brother.

Country Boy Who Made Good, New NAM President

NEW YORK (P)—A country boy who made good in the city and then returned to his home state to make good again is the new president of the National Assn. of Manufacturers.

Cola G. Parker, director of Kimberly-Clark Corp., Neenah, Wis., was formally chosen at the NAM's annual convention Thursday night to succeed Henry G. Ritter III, president of Thomas A. Edison, West Orange, N. J.

Parker, 65, retired last July as chairman of the board of Kimberly-Clark a paper firm which expanded and reached record high sales under his guidance.

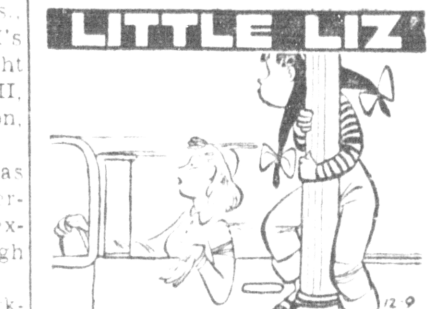

A native of Monroe, Wis., Parker helped found a New York law firm, which specialized in federal court work, antitrust suits and tax cases, and represented the American Paper & Pulp Assn.

At the age of 47, he moved back to Wisconsin and became associated with Kimberly-Clark. He moved up to the post of president of the firm in 1942 and chairman in 1953.

Red Stocking Collections To Aid Missions

FRANKLIN, Ill.—The Evening Missionary Circle of the Methodist church met Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Irene Seymour. There were eighteen members and two guests present. The guests were Mrs. Carlos Roberts and Mrs. C. E. Melton.

Mrs. Clarence Jewsbury had charge of the program and Mrs. Edith Hills led the devotion. Mrs. Gladys Dahman had the special number which she called The Red Stocking Collection. Some time ago small red stockings were given one to each member who were asked to deposit in it increasing sums each week. At this meeting Mrs. Dahman called them in and found they contained more than $75, which will be given to missions and relief work.

Michael Hart has been kept from school a few days with a severe cold. Michael is the son of Mrs. Marie Hart.

Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Barber of Virginia, Ill. were dinner guests of Mr. Barber's daughter and family. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Dahman and daughter Diane, Sunday.

The official Board of the Methodist church met at the parsonage Monday evening. Guy Seymour, the treasurer, reported the finances in good condition and arrangements were made to liquidate the last of the created debt. When the church was newly decorated a year ago, the pastor Rev. George Garris reported he had secured an evangelist to help in the revival which will be held in the spring.

They'll Do It Every Time

By Jimmy Hatlo

GREAT Circle

BY ROBERT CARSE

THE STORY: Capt. Jerred Naish takes leave of his sweet heart, Phoebe Proctor, to sail on a two-year voyage in a whaler before they can be wed. He finds the crew, most of them brought aboard against their will, being beaten by Captain Cupp, a brutal First Mate.

IV

MR. CUPP chose to express his astonishment in popular Massachusetts Bay profanity. "Cap'n, I happen to know that you're new to the whaling trade. Them an' the fo'c'sle are as green as uncut willow, and drunk and sick to boot. We don't start makin' sailors out of them, though, we never will bring the ship home. Best for them to be on deck while we put the canvas on."

Mr. Cupp from what Naish recalled of the man was almost three times his age. When he'd been a lad in smock and pantaloons buying Jim Crow ginger-breads at the cent-store, Mr. Cupp had been sailing as master. But he commanded here, not Eleazar Cupp. The other might be of great help to him, could also cause him harm through stirring up of trouble among the rest of the officers. Cupp could name him to his face or behind his back as a company man, in command solely because of his connections. He hadn't come, though, to his captaincy through the cabin window after a couple of trips as supercargo; he'd worked his way up the hawse pipe, voluntarily and eagerly sailed before the mast before joining the afterguard. He'd match his seamanship against Mr. Cupp's any day, and first, last and always he was master.

"Mister Mate," he said, his voice grave and slow, "you'll work the new hands in daylight. Send aft a hand for the wheel and put a man on the lookout. Then I want that canvas, and all a-main, sir. Handsomely."

The fingers of Mr. Cupp's right hand touched the drooping brim of the tarpaulin hat in a gesture that possibly concealed irony. "Yes, Cap'n," he said.

The man who came aft to take the wheel was swarthy, with long hair. Obviously his shoes hurt his feet, for he had taken them off, made fast the laces and slung them around his neck. An Indian, Naish thought. "Can you steer, man?"

The Indian blinked. "Call me Tatem," he said.

"Harpooner," the man named Tatem said, "should. He had pushed back the hurricane slide and gazed down and in at the compass card. His hands caught the wheel spokes, released the becket and brought the wheel 'midships. He stood sober and relaxed, waiting.

MR. CUPP brought the other mates aft with a degree of formality after the ship had rounded The Graves. "Cap'n Naish," he said, "meet the lot. I reckon that you know Cap'n Whiting chose us, but let me say that we aim to suit you."

"A fine idea," Naish said, suddenly aware that he was still in his shore clothing while these men were dressed for sea and, at his express order, just come to meet them smiling, yet a bit down from aloft. He advanced more stiffly than he liked.

"Mr. Charles Wilson, second mate, outa Cutty Hunk," Cupp said.

Wilson had the blank, drawn look of a man who had been drunk for weeks. Still he had the carriage, the eyes, the grace of a true sailor, and in this moment he was very sober.

"Mr. Reuben Finnie, third mate," Cupp said, "Marble Head-er and ain't ashamed to say it." Finnie, considerably younger than Wilson, wore a hand-knit white sweater that accentuated the power of his arms and shoulders. His approach to Naish was a swagger, and Naish noticed that the sweater was spotted with blood. One no doubt who had delighted in knocking the green hands around. Here was ambition, a whole, hot parcel of it, and a temper to match.

"Mr. James Bothwick, fourth mate," Cupp said. "Gloucester-bound. Uster to be East Indy supercargo. Might be you met him out at Pagoda Anchorage, Cap'n."

"Might be," Naish said quietly as he took Bothwick's hand.

CUPP, in his own mind, put down both him and the Gloucester lad as "quality." Bothwick's family were famous on Cape Ann and had been members of the original Dorchester Company of Adventurers which had founded the place. His family and the Proctors knew the Bothwicks well, but at present it would be wrong to mention that. Bothwick was obviously no more than 20, and thin to the point of emaciation, small-boned, his face delicate, fair. He had torn a fingernail loose while working aloft and blood dripped as he shook hands with Naish. There was no finching, though, and his voice was level as he said, "A pleasure to serve with you, sir."

Naish gave him a quick nod. "Have Mr. Cupp take care of that finger for you," he said. "I believe, gentlemen, that you know how the watches go."

"For certain," Finnie said. "Cupp has stuck me with it till dawn." Then Wilson has his crack.

"I'll be up at dawn for my star sweeps," Naish said. "Mr. Wilson, see that you relieve Mr. Finnie at four bells. The course is as she sails now, East-South-east. I'd like for you to stream the log, Mr. Cupp."

Mr. Cupp's eyes were somber in their regard of Naish. "Cap'n now," he said, "mebbe if young Bothwick was to do that—"

"I'd like it, sir," Bothwick said quickly. "Shall I fetch the glass and the log?"

"Yes, fetch them, Mister," Naish said.

Week's Revival At Glasgow Ends

GLASGOW — A week of nightly revival meetings at the Glasgow Christian church came to a successful close Sunday night, with the church filled to capacity for the final service. Due to inclement weather services were dispersed on Thursday and Friday.

The meetings attracted very good crowds practically every night, with delegations from other churches and nearby towns adding to the local attendance.

The Rev. R. E. May, pastor of the church and ably assisted by Rev. C. L. Letz, minister of the Lynnville Christian church and Rev. E. A. McFarland, minister of the Winchester Christian church, delivered the nightly sermons, both interesting and spiritual messages, which were well received by the attending congregations.

Rev. and Mrs. E. A. McFarland were in charge of the music and rendered special numbers as the meetings progressed. Mrs. Oma Edwards, church pianist, presided at the piano. Special musical numbers were given nightly by both local and visiting talent. On Sunday evening special mention must be made as the numbers rendered were from two young boys, Larry Jones, who sang "In The Garden" and Orval Hungerford of Jacksonville, who played several sacred selections on the accordion.

On Sunday a basket dinner was held in the church basement and was well attended. The day was a day of great fellowship that will be long remembered by the local membership of the Glasgow Christian church.

College Recruiting Excesses Continue Despite NCAA Control

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ever since the Carnegie Foundation blew the whistle on college football nearly 30 years ago, top-level college authorities have been striving to find some way to control victory-hungry institutions, ambitious coaches and enthusiastic alumni who go overboard in their efforts to get good athletes.

The past 10 years have seen increased efforts along these lines and furious discussions among athletic administrators with different viewpoints on the subject. The National Collegiate A. A., which tried to impose strict controls, had to back-track a bit where recruiting was concerned.

Have these efforts met with any marked success in controlling excess? In a word no.

That's the majority opinion of the 149 sports writers and broadcasters throughout the nation participating in the Associated Press post season survey. Their attitude may be slightly cynical, but 72 of these experts replied that such attempts had no marked effect on the activities of college and alumni. Twenty-four saw "very little" or "some" effect, 26 replied with unqualified affirmatives and 5 said they only resulted in more recruiting.

The tone of most comments indicated a recurrent belief that while recruiting continues, it goes hand-in-hand with subsidizing and excesses.

The No. 1 effect of NCAA and other legislation, according to at least a dozen commentators, has been to force the recruiters farther underground. The alumni get most of the blame for the excesses and several writers noted that the colleges and their coaches have fallen in line but they still can't control the old grads.

Said one writer "I think it has let the alumni know they are being watched so now they are a little more careful when they pass out the loot."

A sad comment: "In our section we need more emphasis."

From the minority who saw improvement came these remarks: "Many still are guilty, but there is an increasing sensitiveness to exposure by the NCAA."

"Those who would abuse the rules are slowly being whipped into line."

"Very much effect, especially on the alumni."

Sugar Ray, First Man To Twice Win Back World Middleweight Title

By JACK HAND
CHICAGO (P)—Sugar Ray Robinson rolled back the years and summoned one swift burst of violence from his youth to knock out Carl (Bobo) Olson in 2:31 of the second round Friday night to become the first man ever to twice win back the world middleweight title.

The Sugar Man from Harlem, a scoured 3-1 underdog at the age of 35, suddenly burst into furious action in the second round with a rain of punches. A right uppercut was the final blow that dropped Olson flat on his back.

Baldish Bobo, who won the crown in an elimination series after Robinson "retired" in 1952, rolled over on one side, then the other as Referee Frank Sikora toted off the count of ten.

Just after the fatal count, Olson began to climb slowly to his feet, but it was too late.

Robinson's jubilant corner crew, bolstered by others from his entourage of managers, trainer, police and handlers, hoisted him into the air and carried him around the ring in their excitement. They held him on their shoulders for several seconds as the crowd yelled with excitement at the Chicago Stadium.

It was the second time Robinson had knocked out Olson and the third time he had beaten the Hawaiian-born mauler from San Francisco. Olson also was flattened earlier this year, on June 22, when he ventured over his head into Archie Moore's light heavyweight division.

Although no rematch contract was filed with the Illinois Athletic Commission, Truman Gibson, secretary of the International Boxing Club, said the two fighters had signed contracts for another bout in 90 days if Olson should lose.

In the first round, Olson waded in to take Robinson's body with left hooks, taking the same chances he took against Moore—leading with his right.

In the final seconds of the first round, Robinson caught Bobo near the ropes with a flashy left-right combination. As Olson broke away from the ropes he appeared dazed and wobbled slightly. Sugar Ray drove home a long right lead just before the bell.

Both judges, Ed Hintz and John Bray, gave that first round to Robinson, 10-9, and Referee Sikora called it even, 10-10.

It was a sensational comeback for Robinson, once ruler of both the welter and the middleweight classes. He, too, had made the mistake of moving up to the light heavyweight class to box Joey Maxim, then champion, and suffered a 14-round TKO on a steaming June night in 1952.

That was the only time Robinson ever failed to go the distance in his brilliant 144-bout career.

As the second round started, Robinson jolted Bobo with another right-hand lead. Olson wore a puzzled frown as he moved inside, banging away to the body and ducking under Sugar Ray's counter right.

Then it happened.

Coolly sizing up the opening in his familiar opponent, Sugar Ray lashed out with a rapid left-right combination. Another fast series made Bobo give way. Then came the right uppercut on the whiskers, followed by a left that was hardly needed.

Down went Olson on his back. At about "four" he started to roll over on one side, and then rolled over completely as the count mounted.

It was in this same ring that Robinson first won the middleweight crown, stopping champion Jake Lamotta in the 13th round, Feb. 14, 1951.

After a European tour, Robinson lost the title to Randy Turpin in England in July 1951, and won it back in September of the same year.

Before moving on to the Maxim match, Robinson defended his re-born championship against Olson on March 13, 1952, when he won a 15-round decision and against Rocky Graziano, whom he knocked out in three rounds, April 16, 1952.

Away from the ring for about 31 months, except for an exhibition and a tuneup with Joe Rindone, Robinson came back to this same Stadium last Jan. 19 to take a beating from Tiger Jones. Although he got the rebound as the clock ran out to take the win.

Claussen netted 11 points to cop scoring honors for Franklin. Atkinson and Barnett had 11 markers for the Bluejays.

Shortly before the bout, Robinson learned that his 25 per cent of the gate and the $75,000 radio-television money (Olson got 35 per cent) had been attached by the federal government as a lien against a reported $81,000 in unpaid income taxes.

Olson weighed 159½ and Robinson 159¼.

Bluffs Sneaks By Franklin 38-37

FRANKLIN — (Special)—It was nip and tuck all the way here last night as Bluffs took a thrilling victory from Franklin 38-37 in the final seconds.

Both teams employed a man to man defense during the game which kept the scoring low.

Franklin had a chance to win the game in the final three seconds on a bonus free throw but the shot was missed and Bluffs got the rebound as the clock ran out to take the win.

Claussen netted 11 points to cop scoring honors for Franklin. Atkinson and Barnett had 11 markers for the Bluejays.

Box Score:

"It seemed too fast," said the glum Olson in his dressing room. "I don't know, maybe the referee counted too fast. Did I try to get up?"

Sid Flaherty, his manager, hesitated in to say, "Family troubles are not good excuses."

I.C. At Rose Poly In Conference Tilt; All Local Teams In Action

The Jacksonville high school Crimsons will be gunning for their third win of the season when they tangle with coach Roy Halberg's Feitschans Flyers from Springfield tonight at 8 o'clock.

JHS has won over Taylorville and Pittsfield. Their losses came from Edwardsville, Greenville and Taylorville.

Feitschans has played two games thus far with Beardstown and Greenfield, which they won easily. The Springfield squad has 7 returning lettermen back from last year's squad.

John Homeir, regarded as one of the best centers in the area is the big gun for Feitschans. Chuck Gnat plays a lot of guard and is a scoring threat for the squad also.

Coach Chapman will probably be sticking with his regular lineup. Reynolds and Fairfield at forwards, Jordan, Jordan, Jordan, Scott and Coates out front.

The preliminary will get underway at 6:30.

Wisconsin At I.S.D.

Coach Jim Spink's Tigers will be seeking their sixth win of the season tonight against visiting Wisconsin school for the Deaf.

Wisconsin didn't bring their junior varsity along so unless the Tigers can schedule a preliminary game tomorrow, there will be one game starting at 8 o'clock.

The line-up for ISD will be Zachariasen and Mehring at forwards, Schultz at the pivot post and Duncan at guard. It's a tossup between Middlebrook, Phelps and Ritchey as the other starter.

Franklin at Routt

The Routt Rockets play host to coach Bill Farley's Franklin Flashes in a non-conference game tonight at 8:15.

The Rockets' record is two wins and two losses, the wins coming over Perry and Chapin. Notre Dame of Quincy and Middletown dealt the losses.

Coach Larry Zirkus' starting line-up will be DeVore and Sargent, Woodson, Coop and Long.

The preliminary will start at 6:45.

RYE, WHEAT FUTURES ADVANCE, OTHER GRAINS DECLINE

By WILLIAM FERRIS

CHICAGO (AP)—Only rye and new crop wheat futures were able to advance on the Board of Trade Friday. Although other grains declined, their losses were not large. Soybeans were the weakest cereal, recording losses ranging to around two cents at one time. Feed grains were lower than the previous close throughout practically the entire session. Lard continued its slide.

Wheat closed 1/8 lower to 1/4 higher, corn 1/4-1/2 lower, oats 1/4-1/2 lower, rye 1/2 to 2 cents higher, soybeans 1/4 to 1 cent lower and lard 5 to 7 cents a hundred pounds lower.

Rye's strength was associated with action of that grain at Winnipeg, where gains of 2 1/4 to 2 3/4 were recorded. Buying at that market was credited to cash houses.

New crop wheat futures advanced on lack of moisture in the Southwest, plus a Weather Bureau five-day outlook which mentioned only light snow in parts of Kansas and Nebraska and no precipitation for other winter wheat states.

Soybeans declined in line with a slightly easier tone for cash soybean oil and meal. Oil was quoted at 10 1/2 to 10 3/4 cents a pound, down 1/4, and meal at $49.00 to $49.50 a ton, down 50 cents.

There also was some selling in soybeans on reports prevalent for the past couple of days that there had been a slight increase in country offerings of cash beans.

U. S. Treasury obligations moved up for the second day in moderate activity.

Corporate volume slumped to $3,660,000 par value from $4,140,000 Thursday.

Varsity Football May Resume In '57 At Chicago Univ.

CHICAGO (AP)—Based on success in intramural classes, the University of Chicago may resume varsity football in 1957 on a moderate basis.

The Maroons quit collegiate football in 1939 after a long and successful history, mainly under the coaching of A. A. Staggs.

A special faculty committee recommended that football be resumed two years hence, but the proposal must be approved by a 51-member council of the university senate and the board of trustees.

This fall, Chicago scheduled a class in intra-mural football in its physical education program. The students and coaching staff, headed by J. Kyle Anderson, pronounced the experiment a success.

There is no suggestion, however, that Chicago attempt big time football again. It would be on the same minor scale played by Chicago basketball, track and other sports.

Benson Asks Farmers Curb Pig Production

farm issue. He said the program was "not firm" Friday, that "nothing is final as yet" but that the six-point program the President endorsed at Denver still stands and will be "broadened." The six-point program covers:

1. A stepped-up program of surplus disposal and expansion of exports.

2. A vigorous purchase program to remove market glut caused by overproduction.

3. An enlarged program of soil conservation and incentive payments to divert crop land into grass, trees and forage.

4. An expansion of the rural development program for low income farm families.

5. A stepped-up program of research, emphasizing lower production costs, new uses for farm crops and market expansion.

6. Pushing the "great plains program" aimed at better use of the land with better balanced farming in these areas.

Neither Benson nor James C. Hagerly, White House press secretary would say whether the Hickenlooper proposal, which the senator has discussed with Benson and the President's economic advisers, came up.

But that the administration is concerned by the farm situation was indicated by the time devoted to that issue Friday. Presidential speech writers sat in, as did economic advisers.

German.

The Communist announcement Friday said the German guards had been ordered to be "courteous" and "correct" but also to resist any effort to violate the sovereignty and the laws of the Eastern republic.

It added that the regulations are based on the East German laws, "as well as taking into account the special provisions of the agreements on the control of traffic of troop personnel and goods of the garrisons of France, Britain and the United States which are stationed in Berlin."

Russians have controlled these movements until now. Even after the so-called switchover, Russians continued to remain on duty on the Allied highway link between West Berlin and West Germany, 110 miles away.

U. S. military police reported Friday night that Russians are still on duty at the checkpoints and that Allied traffic is still being funneled through Soviet sentries.

Christmas Vespers At MacMurray Dec. 11

The annual MacMurray College Christmas vespers will be held in the Annie Mermer Chapel at MacMurray College Sunday, Dec. 11. The program will start at 7:30 p.m.

Featured again this year, as in all previous years, will be the performances of the College Choir and the Madrigal Club. These two organizations will also combine into a chorus of 120 voices to sing two selections. The Carolers, a small selected vocal ensemble from members of the College Choir, will also appear in some traditional carols.

The Jacksonville community will also have the pleasure of hearing a Mozart trio for clarinet, viola and piano, played by Bart Johnson, Robert Glazer and Ralph Robbins. The MacMurray string ensemble, composed of College students and faculty, will also play selections from Handel's Concerto No. 6.

Robert Glasgow, who has become a favorite among organ audiences for his masterful performances, will play the service. He will also perform as solo appropriate Christmas selections by d'Aquin and Richard Purvis.

A feature which impressed last year's audience was the interpretation by dance of the events of Nativity, which were performed so beautifully by the Orchestral dance group. Another setting will be performed this year by this group.

Members of the program committee have attempted to emphasize the simplicity of Christmas by selecting simple carols for presentation. The audience will also be invited to participate by their joining in the singing of these carols.

Directors in charge of the various participating organizations are Henry E. Busche, College Choir; Marjorie Phelps Gerson, Madrigal Club; Robert Glazer, string ensemble; Diana Gaumer, Orchestral; the Carolers, Henry E. Busche.

Dr. McKendree M. Blair is the Chaplain. The community is cordially invited to attend the program.

Helen Ann Lenz, Local Student On "Two For Money"

Miss Helen Ann Lenz, a sophomore student of speech and drama at MacMurray College, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Lenz of Reno, Nevada, has been asked to appear on the television show "Two For the Money" Saturday evening, Dec. 10, in New York City.

She is the second student from MacMurray appearing on that program within the last year. Miss Bette Johnson, a junior from Appleton, Wis., participated in this show just last summer.

Miss Lenz plans to fly to New York City Saturday morning where arrangements have been made for her two-day stay. In the evening she will appear as a guest on the program with a partner who will probably be another college student.

Miss Lenz, who until recently resided in Park Ridge, Ill., has taken an active part in campus affairs of all types. This year she is the sophomore class president; a member of the MacMurray Honor Roll; and a member of Alpha Lambda Delta, a national society for high scholastic achievement.

Television work is not completely new to her, as last year she was one of 12 MacMurray students who appeared on a Cerebral Palsy Telethon in Springfield, Ill.

Says Psychiatric Program Valuable To Armed Forces

Colonel Donald B. Peterson, Washington, D. C., addressed the Morgan County Medical Society at a dinner meeting Tuesday at the Norbury Sanatorium. Colonel Peterson, who is Chief Psychiatric Consultant for the United States Army, spoke on "Psychiatry in Three Wars."

He emphasized that a well organized military psychiatric program can produce great savings in manpower and in prevention of mental illness. If adjustment problems of soldiers are recognized and treated early, many more soldiers can be continued on duty, he said. Both the Armed Forces and the individual soldier benefit from this program.

New NAM Head Urges Ike Tell 1956 Plans Soon

By WALTER BUSSEWITZ
NEW YORK (P)—The new president of the National Assn. of Manufacturers declared today that President Eisenhower should announce his plans for 1956 early enough so that other candidates can enter preferential primaries.

"I don't hold with the principle that there is any indispensable man," Cola G. Parker told a news conference after he had been formally elected to head the association of industrial leaders.

On other matters, Parker forecast a new peak in prosperity for 1956 and asserted that the merger of the AFL-CIO contains "implications of very great danger for the American people."

He predicted the nation's output of goods and services will climb by 3 to 5 percent next year over booming 1955.

Parker, who retired recently as chairman of Kimberly-Clark Corp., Neenah, Wis., said that he had no plans in his position to meet with leaders of the new labor movement to work out any formula for labor-management peace.

"I think that is a matter for the individual companies to take up with the union," he said. "The NAM has neither the right nor obligation to interfere in their affairs."

On the economy, he said, "I think we are at the point where inflation must be watched. The Federal Reserve Board so far has done a magnificent job in its field in stopping the inflationary tendency."

"The nation's economic outlook is good and can continue to be good for a long time if all of us exercise sound policies," said Parker.

The Wisconsin industrial leader is a country boy who made good in the city and then returned to his home state to make good again.

As head of NAM, he succeeded Henry G. Rier III, president of Thomas A. Edison, Inc., West Orange, N. J.

COMMUNIST LEAVES U.S.
NEW YORK (P)—Claudia Jones, 40, one of 10 convicted second-string Communist leaders, voluntarily left the country Friday.

She sailed for England on the liner Queen Elizabeth.

Miss Jones, Negro native of Trinidad, was released from federal prison Oct. 23 after serving a year and a day on her conviction on charges of conspiracy to teach and advocate violent overthrow of the U.S. government. On Nov. 17 she agreed to leave the country voluntarily after immigration officials sought to deport her.

Jet Blast Cracks Factory Windows

Jacksonville was jarred violently by an aerial concussion at 9:15 o'clock Friday morning at the same time a jet plane was observed flying over the city. The explosion-like sound was one of a long series of blasts that has startled citizens at irregular intervals.

At the Edli Bridge Co. factory it was reported that several window panes were cracked by the concussion. Glass and loose putty trickled down from the windows.

A mechanic at the factory said he heard plastering or putty falling a moment after the blast. Other employees began an investigation and reported about one-half dozen windows were cracked.

Car Badly Wrecked; Two Girls Injured

Two girls residing near this city were injured and four other young people experienced a narrow escape when a 1956 Ford car overturned and was badly wrecked at 10:50 o'clock Thursday night on a gravel highway northwest of Jacksonville.

The car was driven by Rene Lemme, 16, of 831 South Church street, who lost control as it was rounding a curve south of the site of the former county home.

Taken to Passavant hospital and admitted for treatment of injuries were Connie Henderson, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Henderson of route 3, and Betty Lewis, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Lewis of route 3.

Miss Lewis was found to be suffering from concussion, and further examination was to be made.

Miss Henderson has a fractured rib and injury to one shoulder.

Sheriff's officers who investigated the accident reported that Shirley Bourn, 17, Janet Strickler, 17, and Evelyn Henderson, 14, escaped injury or at least were not admitted to the hospital.

Lemme, a high school student, had been driving the new car only a few days. It was towed to the McCurdy Motor Sales.

HONOLULU (P)—The Navy called off massive air searches Thursday night for seven men missing in the crash of a P2V Neptune patrol bomber Wednesday night and two Marine pilots missing since Tuesday night in two attack bombers off Oahu.

But in a limited search today two Neptunes were to take off from the Naval Air Station at Barbers Point for the Kaula Island area and a flight of Marine Skyraiders will search 9,900 square miles south of Oahu.

The pilots are squadron mates of the missing men.

The giant P2V, carrying 10 men, crashed into the sea off Kaula during night war games with a fleet of submarines. Three survivors were picked up soon afterwards.

There was no trace of the others.

Dolan Completes Perjury Sentence On Ransom Money

TEXARKANA, Tex. (P)—Elmer Dolan, a former St. Louis policeman, was released from federal prison early today after completing a perjury sentence in the handling of the Greenlease kidnap ransom money.

Dolan served a 2 year sentence with the customary time off for good behavior.

Dolan and a veteran St. Louis police Lieutenant, Louis Shoultz, were convicted at separate trials in the spring of 1954 of giving perjured testimony before a federal grand jury.

The two officers arrested Carl Austin Hall in St. Louis Oct. 6, 1953. Hall and his paramour, Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady, later were executed for kidnapping and killing Bobby Greenlease, 6, who was lured from a Kansas City private school and shot to death Sept. 28, 1953.

What happened to approximately half the $600,000 ransom money paid by Bobby's millionaire father, Robert C. Greenlease, still is a mystery.

McKay Forgets If He Used 'Goon' Term Of Labor

PORTLAND, Ore. (P)—Secretary of Interior McKay said Thursday night he didn't remember making the "goon" statement credited to him by Adlai Stevenson, but he immediately adopted it.

"I certainly never said it in any major speech. But what of it? I don't go along with some of the goons in labor—and there are goons—we have had them right here in Oregon," McKay said on a stopover at Portland while flying to Honolulu.

Stevenson's remark in a New York speech Thursday had been "A member of the Cabinet has said he doesn't happen to go along with some of the 'goons' who are 'running things'." An aide said Stevenson was referring to McKay.

McKay had other comments on Stevenson.

"He's a fine one to talk of Cabinet members splitting the nation. The Democrats did more to make this nation class conscious and divide it with their New Deal than has anything else in the country's history."

Brucker Pledges To Get GIs Out Of Tents In Korea

SEOUL (P)—U. S. Army Secretary Wilber M. Brucker left for Okinawa today after pledging "all the facilities and materials at my disposal" to enable American soldiers guarding the Korean armistice to live in solid buildings instead of tents.

Brucker said he had found some good troop housing in Korea, some "not so good" and "I am very displeased" that many soldiers still live in canvas tents in subfreezing weather.

"Troop housing commands a great part of my interest. . . I want to make that problem budge—and it will budge," Brucker said.
